MUST STOP FLOWER THEFTS—The practice of picking flowers from the bushes on the state house lawn, by visitors and persons who live near the capital has become such a great nuisance that Caretaker Keen has been compelled to serve notice that hereafter any person who is caught taking the blooms or otherwise mutilating the plants and shrubs, will be summarily dealt with. The vandals are not only carrying off the flowers, which they fail to regard as property of the state, but they generally mutilate the bushes in a manner which destroys their beauty and usefulness. Mr. Keen has spent much time in bringing the landscape gardening up to its present state of perfection and naturally does not like to see this beauty spot despoiled by thoughtless persons. The night watchman has been instructed to keep a special lookout for these flower snatchers.
